Bossco International Hires Overseas Manufacturing Expert, Jeremy Janke, as New Operations Manager

San Diego, CA (July 30, 2009) Bossco International, an industry leader in all in one portable illuminators, is proud to announce an addition to their corporate team. Jeremy Janke has been hired as Operations Manager to the fast growing, west coast Company.

Janke comes to Bossco with an extensive background that includes working with factories in China and facilitating product importing and exporting to major retailers in the United States and around the world.

Bossco International is well connected and familiar with the pros and cons of overseas manufacturing.

“A global chain of relationships in the world of distribution is required to meet the demands of customers domestically as well as internationally” There are far more global liaisons in the world of manufacturing than you might think,” Janke explained. “Companies must perform their due diligence and find experienced people to work with but the world of business can only expand if we develop the relationships at our disposal. That means often working with numerous partners to meet our objectives”

“We are very fortunate to have found a perfect match to our needs,” Erin Mrozek, VP of Marketing for the company said. Our very focused goals for Bossco include always seeking out the right person for the job, not always an easy task. We are confident that Jeremy brings the right skills, experience and attitude to Bossco.”

Clifford Wright, a prominent engineer with over six patents accredited to his name, founded Bossco International in 2007. His experience in the industry of manufacturing and design spans over 20 years.
